PERSONAL OF CALIFORNIA. In a recent megazine article, Mr. Ernest Isersoil, the noted writer, says:
"The elimate of southern California in winor closely resembles that of Egypt. Its equaonly the only complaint made is that it is no nearly perfect. Residents bred in the natern atates confess now and then that a consing atorm would give them a grateful sensation. But this sentiment meets with no farer from the man who has just fiel from a aperfluity of wetures and chilling gales. To on perpetual summer seems perpetual para-
